

BEER: A Tour through Germany's Best-Loved Brews

Stop 4: Berlin

For Americans visiting Germany, one thing that might initially be missing is craft beer. Germany is known for the purity law, not for strawberry-dry-hopped-distilled-triple-dark-IPAs. A break in the heavy Weissbiers is occasionally necessary, so a trip to Berlin is in order. Berlin is the hipster capital of Europe, and the perfect place for a good craft beer before Oktoberfest.

Stop 5: Leipzig

A stop in Leipzig means a trip to any brewpub that serves Gose. Gose is a local beer first made in the town of Goslar, but made popular by bars in Leipzig. It has a unique salty flavor and a heavy body. It is definitely a must-try for all amateur beer enthusiasts.
