8 OF MOST BEAUTIFUL GERMAN CHRISTMAS MARKETS

Nikolaiviertel Berlin

One of the quieter and lesser known Christmas markets in Berlin, the Nikolaiviertel market is set in the historic heart of city on the charming cobbled streets which surround the Nikolaikirche, the oldest church in Berlin which dates back to 1243.

The market not only sells the usual Christmas market fare, with craft stalls and food stalls serving things such as crepes, pretzels and Jagertee (rum with wine, orange juice, tea and spices), but also has choir performances and an open air cinema.

The market is already open and runs until the very end of December.
