Going to the Christmas market in Magdeburg means not only enjoying Glühwein, cookies, and baked apples, but also being surrounded by THIS LANDSCAPE. Is there anything more Christmas-y than this?

10. Hamburg, Hamburg

11. Weimar, Thüringen

Weimar was once home to Goethe and Schiller and as such is a cultural epicenter in Germany. Having a Christmas market in front of Goethe's house in a town square just couldn't be more German. That alone is a reason to visit the Weimar Christmas
