8 TIPS TO HELP YOU SURVIVE THE HARSH GERMAN WINTER

1. Make sure you drink Glühwein

Glühwein with spices and orange.

Hot drinks are essential in the winter, and coffee will help you to keep going before lunch. But since we're now in November, once you're out of the office it's time for Glühwein.

Glühwein (literally "glowing wine") is most commonly known as mulled wine in English, and is the perfect warming accompaniment to the winter months.

Normally mulled with a mixture of festive spices, such as cinnamon and cloves, and often served with orange or honey, you'll find this all over the nation as we get closer to Christmas.

And, if Glühwein doesn't sound like it's up your Strasse, then try out some of these other Christmas market drinks.
