

GRÜNDONNERSTAG / GREEN THURSDAY

The Thursday before Easter is known as "Gründonnerstag" or "Green Thursday." Here, the custom is to eat green foods such as soups made with spinach, leeks, and parsley.

Eat something green: "Gründonnerstag" (Maundy Thursday in English) is the last time Jesus ate with his disciples before he was crucified. The word "grün" in Germany, in this case, does not come from the color green, but from the old German word "grönan," which means crying. But some people still eat just green food on this day.

Rabbits also enjoying being outside near Thuringia on Gründonnerstag.
