heated wine with cinnamon (white) der Glühwein

No German Christmas market is complete without "Glühwein," the hot, spiced mulled wine that warms holiday merrymakers from the inside out as they stroll through these charming little villages of cloth and wood with family and friends.

Spiced hot wine

The mulled wine sold at the Dresden Christmas market is said to have more calories than any other: 256 per mug, to be exact - or about half the calories of a chocolate bar. That's according to a study by the "nu3" online supermarket. According to their ranking, the mulled wine found at the markets in Cologne and Stuttgart has the least calories.
