FAMILIENGEBRÄUCHE / FAMILY CUSTOMS*15 KEY STATS THAT DESCRIBE GERMANS TODAY

The average age of first marriage for men in Germany is 33.4 years, and 30.9 years for women

Not only are less people marrying in Germany than in earlier times, but they are also marrying significantly later in life.

This is most likely due to the wish of finishing one's education prior to committing to a marriage. In Germany, people also tend to finish their degrees later than in countries such as the US or UK.

You might think that the average marriage age would be before the birth of a's first child, but according to statistics it is, for women, approximately one year later!

Germans consume 104.2 litres of beer per capita

For many Germans beer is second in line to water.

But it's hard to blame Germans when their beer is so cheap and delicious.

Germany is the fourth largest consumer of beer worldwide. In comparison, the US is on ranks in 19th place with 74.8 litres consumed per capita.

However, Germany is not the greatest beer consumer in Europe. Compared to the Czech Republic with 183,1 litres per capita, Germany's statistic is still pretty sobering.
