Eleonore debuted as a recorder soloist in the Trapp Family Singers at the age of ten. Later she performed on tour as a second soprano vocalist for four years, and first soprano for eight years. Helping out with family's summer enterprise, the Trapp Family Music Camp, "Lorli", as she is called, prepared the meals for the guests and led group singing workshops. She met her husband at the music camp and they were wed in 1954. Together they raised seven children.

Often gathering her family and friends, Lorli is known for being a great hostess and cook. She is also an accomplished seamstress and enjoys gardening.

Today, Lorli continues to keep up with friends and family, near and far.
